A FRAMEWORK FOR CHANGE

Introduction

The Wilmington Education Improvement Commission (Commission) was mandated by legislation to advise the Governor and General Assembly on how to improve the quality of public education for children within the City of Wilmington and how to address the needs of all Delaware schools that have high concentrations of students in poverty, English language learners (ELLs), and other students at risk. The Commission is charged to carry out the action agenda developed by the Wilmington Education Advisory Committee as described in Strengthening Wilmington Education: An Action Agenda.

The Commission's framework for change focuses on three areas of critical importance for an improved education system and student outcomes: creating responsive governance, funding student success, and meeting the needs of students in poverty.

Meeting the Needs of Students in Poverty

Integrate existing public, private, and nonprofit services

Align and mobilize cross-sector initiatives and resources

Enhance parent and community participation

Increase in-school, out-of-school, and early childhood supports

Funding Student Success

Strengthen the education finance structure (both state and local)

Fund low-income students, English language learners (ELLs), and students at risk

Provide sufficient state and local revenue base

Fund early childhood education and college and career readiness programs

Creating Responsive Governance

Streamline governance

Improve and sustain charter and district collaboration

Focus responsibility and leadership for the education of Wilmington students

HIGHER-QUALITY SCHOOLS

Highly qualified teachers

Increased resources to students

Updated facilities

Improved instruction and learning

Extended in-school and out-of-school services

IMPROVED STUDENT OUTCOMES

MEETING THE NEEDS OF STUDENTS IN POVERTY

Poverty is a dominant force limiting educational success for a growing number of Delaware children. The condition of poverty has become increasingly widespread among Delaware children. Children in poverty, particularly in the City of Wilmington, often face harsh circumstances because their environment imposes burdens upon them that extend far beyond the limits of their families' incomes. Most schools are not equipped to help students who carry the traumas they experience in their daily lives to school. Supporting schools with high concentrations of students in poverty, ELLs, and students at risk requires the mobilization of resources from all sectors at all levels of education.

Priorities and Recommendations

- High-quality programs, services, and early childhood education for all children in Wilmington
- A comprehensive plan for improving and integrating state and local services for low-income children and their families and for schools with high enrollments of low-income students
- Increased in-school supports for students experiencing trauma and other social and emotional challenges
- Improved P–20 alignment of resources and programs to support student learning and development from birth through college and workforce
- Coordinated community (nonprofit and private) support of schools with high concentrations of students in poverty

Meeting the Needs of Students in Poverty

Although Delaware spends a great deal on the public education system, there is no state allocation for low-income students, ELLs, and basic K–3 special education. Providing these funds is the Commission's top priority and the essential foundation for equitable funding of public education that meets the differing needs of all Delaware students.

Priorities and Recommendations

- Statewide funding for low-income students, ELLs, and basic special education students K–3
- Funding for early childhood education programs to meet the needs of students in poverty in Wilmington and statewide
- Increased funding for extended in-school and out-of-school services and supports, including after-school programs
- Strengthened revenue base that supports public education at both the state and local levels, including property reassessment

Funding Student Success

Strengthen the education finance structure (both state and local)

Fund low-income students, ELLs, and students at risk

Provide sufficient state and local revenue base

Fund early childhood education and college & career readiness programs

NAMED IN HONOR OF DELAWARE'S FIRST AFRO-AMERICAN ATTORNEY, GRADUATE OF HOWARD HIGH SCHOOL, BROWN UNIVERSITY, AND HARVARD LAW SCHOOL. ADMITTED TO THE DELAWARE BAR IN 1925. POWER IN THE STRUGGLE FOR EQUALITY AND TIRELESS ADVOCATE IN CIVIL RIGHTS CASES OF NATIONAL SIGNIFICANCE.

CREATING RESPONSIVE GOVERNANCE

Public education governance for City of Wilmington students is fragmented among districts and charter schools, with little coordination or collaboration. Coherent and responsive governance is essential to improve student outcomes. Achieving greater collaboration among charter schools, among districts, and among charter and district schools is critical to overall student success.

The Commission is committed to a new vision of public education through which all public schools—traditional district schools, vocational-technical (vo-tech) schools, and charter schools—accept a shared responsibility for, and act in concert to support, the effective education of all Wilmington students. Such collaboration should be a keystone of public education throughout Delaware.

Priorities and Recommendations

- Streamline the delivery of public education in the City of Wilmington to support greater coherence and accountability
- Use a statewide assessment of the developmental needs of students to guide the approval and expansion of new schools and programs
- Develop all schools in accordance with a new vision that promotes shared capacity, collaboration, and best practices among charter and traditional schools
- Establish a collaborative compact to better support operational needs and best practices of all public schools serving City of Wilmington students

Creating Responsive Governance

Streamline governance

Improve and sustain charter and district collaboration

Focus responsibility and leadership for the education of Wilmington students
